FARMERS' INSTITUTE

THE MOST ENJOYABLE SESSION
THE SOCIETY'S HISTORY

Was Held at City Hall Last Friday and Saturday—Gratifying Attendance Despite the Unfavorable Weather—The Report in Detail.

The sixth annual session of the Marion County Farmers' Institute met in City Hall on Friday morning, with a large attendance. Through the enterprise of Mr. Blake and others the stage was tastefully decorated with evergreens and other specimens of farm products.

At 10:30 President Lawrence called the meeting to order, and Miss Retterer, with a quartette of singers, appropriately rendered "The Lord is My Shepherd." Rev. Wallace followed with a prayer, after which the Misses Hudson rendered a piano duet. Mr. Blake welcomed the Institute for Mayor Gailley, in a few well-chosen words, stating that the business men and officials of Marion had shown their appreciation of the farmers' efforts to improve by taking membership tickets and donating the use of the hall.

President Lawrence responded with an eloquent address, in which he read, in part: "We come not with the implements of war, but with products of our hands and with the music of song. We do not want the red flag of Anarchy, demanding a division of property, but with the glorious flag of our Union! One fact above all others stands out: We are living in an age of progress, and the man who refuses to read, think and act will be left behind. We should not refuse to look the dangers of the hour squarely in the face. The desecration of the Sabbath, the horrors of the liquor traffic and the corruption of the ballot, all demand prompt action, and in these times we look instinctively to the rural population for relief. After a brief summary of the obstacles in the former part of progress, Mr. Lawrence paid a beautiful tribute to the Christian home as a center of our hopes.

The quiet then sang "How gently sweet Atone."

Secretary L. N. Bonham, of the State Board of Agriculture, then read his able and intensely interesting paper entitled "The Horse in History." No mention was made of the horse in the time of Adam. We are probably indebted to the Egyptians for the horse. The cruel act of hamstringing the noble steeds captured by the Israelites showed them as averse to the horse as the pig. David, Abdon and Solomon had horses and it is a singular fact that no nation has made progress without the horse. The horses of ancient Greece were used only in the races. The cruels of Mohammed carried the royal blood of Arab and Barb steeds to Europe, and the Norman Conquest dispersed this influence to Great Britain, where, combining with the heavy horses of Flanders, we have the type of horse immortalized by Ross Bonnett, of the Horse Fair. The perfection of today is a combination of the blood of the Arab, Barb, an Arabian, Flanders and the Roman horses. Three hundred years of degeneration shows what the noble Andalusian war horse has reached in Mexican granger and pony. Up to the battle of Hastings the horse had been used only in the saddle and in war for the most part. The steel shoe of the running horse was established in 1791 and pedigrees were traced back one hundred years. From the thoroughbred, came the coach and overt horse and the American trotting horse for many centuries the horse was used only for ceremony and sport, but later on drawing loads, and in modern times with the introduction of the light vehicle with springs and better roads, the trotting horse which has been better adapted to last longer than others. Trials of speed at the trot were first held at Jamaica, N. Y., in 1826, and have grown in popularity from that time. The thoroughbred horse has been in its period of demand for a heavy battle horse in knight errantry and the thoroughbred in cavalry, sport and ceremony. The trotter in the business demands of the country. The paper was followed by an interesting discussion on the use of the term "thoroughbred," and the question "Do Institutes Pay?" until adjournment.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The exercises of the afternoon on Friday opened with a duet by the Misses Hudson, followed by Miss Yale's pleasing rendition of the "Evening at the Farm."

Daniel McFarland read an able paper on the rotation of crops. Incidentally he made a plea for the better education of the farmer. Cover roots might be studied with as much profit as Greek roots. He discussed in an interesting way the advanced methods of rotating crops so as to retain and preserve the plant-food in the soil. His paper was full of practical hints and evoked largely from experience.

Various questions of interest were asked, and then Mr. Baldwin read "Father Phil's Collection."

Prof. Weber, of the Ohio State University, followed with an exhaustive paper on "Barnyard Manure," showing the organic and mineral constituents of the soil and the best means of fertilizing worn-out soils.

FRIDAY EVENING

The evening session was well attended by both city and country representatives, and the features of the evening's program were music by the choir, an admirable recitation by Mrs. Taylor and the address by Secretary L. N. Bonham on "Science of Agriculture."

The second day's program was much enjoyed by the delightful music furnished by Miss Retterer's choir and the piano music by the Misses Hudson.

Rev. W. E. Thomas gave the invocation.

Clearance Sale!

Those who took advantage of the bargains in the sale one year ago will hail this announcement with joy, for they know it means DRY GOODS SO CHEAP that the poor grow rich. Those who have not yet attended these sales are invited to call and see what a bona fide reduction sale is.

THE ARGUMENT

Is this: The first week in February we begin our annual invoice; every merchant desires to rush out the goods just prior to that time, and the dry goods merchant especially likes to boom things. He wants room for new stock, wants to sell his remnants—so much more valuable to a customer than him, and always sold at a great sacrifice; he wants business to rush in a dull season, and of course he cuts prices in an attractive way to the customer. To be brief, "Prices are at Half-mast," so to speak, at our store, and the clerks are ordered to give you goods so low that you will rejoice with full arms for a little money. Call and see what a bona fide clearance sale is—there is one going on now, first door west of P. O.

—The Marion Manufacturing Co. has just completed its first stationary engine, a model 25-horse power engine that goes to Prospect. It is a perfect success, as is also the 40-horse power boiler that goes with it.

—S. L. Davis, who teaches the district school on west Silver street, beyond the corporate limits, has the unpleasant popularity of arrest for assault and battery on his hands. Last week he whipped a daughter of Chas. Showers, for some offense, and the father failing to secure satisfaction from the teacher had him arrested for alleged assault and battery. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat: "True Irish Hearts," which opened at the Standard last night to a crowded house, is as pretty an Irish play as one would care to see, and is very appropriately set in scenery. The company, too, is a good one. Kithie Coleman, the soubrette jig and reel dancer, is a strong leader in the cast and merits all the attention she receives. She is a very clever little actress and in her dancing brings down the house. The other members of the cast do their work commendably well. "True Irish Hearts" will continue through the week with the usual matinees.

—"Music Hath Charms." There can be no truer saying: "In all ages in the history of the arts, music as descended from the gods, stands first." The ancient mariners, according to mythology, were lured into drifting their ship against the rocks by the sweet strains of the Siren, who, well knowing the human susceptibility to music, drew them on to their ruin. It is heard among the savage tribes who, from an innate love of harmony, construct rude instruments from which they produce a weird, and yet in reality, a real sort of music. We sit spellbound before the modern opera and listen in rapt adoration to the classic strains of a Wagner. We bow in subject slavery to a Handel or Beethoven. We listen with our very souls stirred to the confession of faith in "I know that my Redeemer liveth." Eyes unused to tears are moistened while hearts are made tender by the simple appeal "Why not be saved," sung at the usual church service.

There is nothing so elevating in its tendency as the study of music, and it is a fact to be commended that our young people are becoming awakened to a sense of need of more culture in the divine art. Marion has already contributed a fair share to the musical world in the sweet voices of her daughters and sons, who shine as stars in their chosen profession.

But there are many others of the younger class who need training to bring out voices promising much power if properly cultivated. The Marion Vocal Union, recently organized, is a golden opportunity for just such training. They are already doing excellent work under the management and directorship of Prof. Will Miles, who, ably assisted by Miss Griselda Davis, is training his class in such works as can only be found in oratorio. Perhaps a few words of explanation would not be amiss.

This vocal society is organized on a permanent basis and with the payment of one dollar you become a member and will continue as long as the organization exists. The drill will be thorough and the grade of music high. The society already numbers nearly half a hundred voices, and it is the wish and aim of its enthusiastic officers and members to make it a success. The music studied and chorus drill is of a character advanced and will interest even our most cultivated musicians. Come out and help this enterprise. Let the Marion Vocal Union become one of the best in all the State for the possibilities are great.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Callie Kiente, a Much Respected Young Lady Living Near Claridon, Hangs Herself, but Is Cut Down and Lives.

Special to the Daily Star.

CLARIDON, O., Jan. 7.—The people of this vicinity learned with consternation, about noon on Saturday, of the attempted suicide of Callie Kiente, aged seventeen, years and daughter of Jacob Kiente, who lives two miles south of this place.

She was found about 9:30 a. m. hanging from a beam in the barn by a rope which was securely fastened around her neck, life being apparently extinct. Being unable to extricate her, Mrs. Kiente hastily procured a knife and cut the rope. She had first secured one end of the rope to the beam and, while standing on a stool about eighteen inches in height, wrapped it around her neck three times, tied it and jumped off. Every circumstance showed a pre-determination to commit suicide.

How long can not long she be learned, but she was quite cold when found, yet she retained some vitality, as evinced by an occasional attempt at respiration. Dr. Britton, of this place, was called and by unremitting efforts succeeded in resuscitating her, though she remained in a condition of unconsciousness for forty-eight hours.

Of excellent family, showing a precocity of intellect and possessing a handsome appearance, she was widely known. Her buoyancy of spirit and genial disposition had made her a favorite everywhere. The news of the tragedy therefore was scarcely credible, though it created the greatest excitement and was the subject of universal comment. Hundreds of people have visited the scene of the would-be suicide, but we are gratified to state that she has steadily improved and that hopes are now entertained of her complete recovery.

Not wishing to give the affair undue publicity, but considering a statement of facts preferable to the many suppositions that might find publication, we send the following, embodied in a letter found on the person of Miss Kiente, as the only explanation offered for the strange act:

"Domestic unhappiness leads to destruction. All I have I leave to Emma and Edie. It is trouble that makes me do this—trouble, trouble, trouble—so I conclude to end my life and bid you all 'Good Bye.'"

"CALLIE KIENTE."

The "trouble" is supposed to be an assertion by her father, during a fit of displeasure, that he had made a will and had disinherited her.

The community deeply regrets the sad occurrence while the family, which is highly respected, is overwhelmed with grief.

Positively Five Days Longer. Dr. M. L. Frazier, after having spent three or four weeks here, during which time over two hundred of Marion's leading citizens were treated and cured of their Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Toe Nails, Chilblains, Warts, &c., announced through the press of this city that his labors would close here on Saturday evening, Jan. 5th, but so great have been the demands by those who at first were a little doubtful but have since been informed that there is real virtue in his treatment, and who now desire to be treated themselves, as letters on file will show, that the Doctor has been compelled to extend his engagement elsewhere, and spend five days more in this city, during which time he will be glad to see all persons who are troubled with foot diseases and guarantees to cure, no matter what the ailment may be, them. Calls made at reasonable hours by appointment.

Will remain at Hotel Marion until Friday evening at 7 o'clock.
